

SVA Accounting Spotlight on Service: An Employee Benefit Plan Audit Helps Manage Your Plan

If your organization has an employee benefit plan with a hundred or more participants, you are more than likely required to include audited financial statements with your annual form 5500. While many see this as just another government requirement, at SVA we feel this is an opportunity for your organization.

My name is Mike Gustafson and I'm a principal at SVA and in charge of employee benefit plan audit group. Our group performs over 60 audits of employee benefit plans. This experience allows our audit professionals to not just perform a compliance engagement, but to really assist our clients and better managing of their employee benefit plan. An employee benefit plan audit by an experienced independent CPA can provide you with critical information to help you run your plan more effectively. With benefits & employee compensation being one the largest cost for an organization. The more efficiency improved controls and overall improvements in your plan that you can achieve, the more successful your plan will be. SVA's experienced audit team can make the challenges and frustrations of an employee benefit plan audit a straightforward and reassuring process as well as offering a unique perspective that can help your plan be more successful. We look forward to providing you with quality audit and valuable guidance to assist you in the administration of your plan.
