

Are you wondering what the value of your business is? Business valuations are an important tool used in a number of scenarios including gifting or estate purposes, ownership planning, such as adding new or buying out existing owners, refinancing or recapitalizing, and litigation situations, including divorce, just to name a few.

Hello, I'm Craig Billings, evaluation expert with SVA. Business valuation can be a complex process that requires extensive research, objectivity and experience. Understanding and interpreting the data in quantitative and qualitative factors requires an in-depth knowledge of the valuation process as well as staying at the cutting edge of innovation in this constantly evolving field. That's why at SVA we have a team focused exclusively on valuation and we pride ourselves in being able to provide the best analysis communicated effectively to the end user. From a practical standpoint, SVA valuation experts can help you better understand what drives the value of your business today and how to impact those business drivers to maximize your business's value in the future. Contact us today to find out more about the valuation process and how we can help you in determining the value of your business.