What sets SVA apart is that we're able to meet all of your financial needs in one place. We're able, if you're a business owner for example, to help you set up your business and provide ongoing business advisory services. We can help you file all of your annual business and personal tax returns. We're able to help you manage your money and even do some succession planning or estate planning if that's something that fits your needs.

What really gets me excited about the work that I do is first and foremost, I get to help people. People come to me with a problem and I get to help them solve that problem. I specialize in personal income taxes and I help them gather the information that they need and I then put those pieces together and I'm able to give them either a tax plan or a tax return.

One of the measurable results I provide to my clients is saving them taxes. I had one client who came to us and was selling some land in another state. And by doing some tax planning, we were able to save him fourteen thousand dollars by paying his taxes just a few months prior to when you normally would have.

The greatest accomplishment I'm most proud of is having my three kids and being able to be an involved parent. I'm able to come to work and meet the needs of my clients but I'm also able to spend time with them when they need me.
