

Laura Zach Video Bio

I decided to become a CPA after I worked with a small business owner in between some majors in college. I found out that I loved the career of accounting and it's a great fit for me.

One of my greatest accomplishments here at SVA in my career has been working to achieve a work-life balance. I love helping my clients. I'm really involved in their lives from A to Z and helping them achieve their goals. And it's great that I can help them out while I'm here at work, but also have some time away with my family too.

My clients tell me that I'm easy to work with, always responsive in my communications with them, and that I am a good listener looking out for their best interests.

I impact my clients' businesses by continually working with them to help them achieve their financial goals. I meet with them regularly to look through their financials and help them figure out how they can grow the top line. How they can save money on the bottom line so that they have more profit to achieve their needs.
